A Message from the General Manager

50 Years of Access

For 50 years, Vegas PBS has sought to provide universal access to educational, cultural, performance, and public affairs media content. This has included construction of rural TV repeaters as well as ways to help the deaf and blind experience TV. While the technology used to deliver content has dramatically evolved over the past five decades, our commitment to eliminate barriers to access and deliver robust educational content to everyone in Southern Nevada has remained steadfast.

In the 1970s, during its earliest years as a television network, PBS stations began using a portion of their television signal to add program subtitles that were displayed when a special decoder was attached. The new technique was called Closed Captioning. In 1972, Julia Child's The French Chef was the first television program accessible to viewers who were deaf or hard of hearing. It wasn't until 1993 that Congress required all televisions to include caption decoders. Today, the ubiquitous closed captioning technology is in movies, helps children learning to read and adults learning English, and provides language translations.

In the late 1980s, PBS stations began using a second audio program (SAP) channel made possible by the addition of stereo audio to TV signals. Music lovers were thrilled, and SAP channels were used to carry verbal descriptions of on-air action during pauses in dialogue for people who were visually impaired. In 1986, Arthur became the first television broadcast accessible to viewers with vision impairment. Today, many PBS KIDS shows and primetime programs like Masterpiece, NOVA and Nature carry audio descriptions on the SAP channel to increase the universality of program access to all viewers.

In 2004, Vegas PBS was approved by the US Department of Education as the first Nevada-based distributor of their open-captioned and audio described video library materials for school children. Grant funding allowed us to create a library of newly developed open-captioned video tapes. In response to community requests, the library quickly added sign language training and Braille resources for children and adults.

We soon observed that many of these materials were being requested by parents and teachers working with children with Down syndrome, certain Autism Spectrum Disorders, and delayed motor or verbal skills. We also experienced loan requests from adults who were losing hearing or vision late in life. Because our captioned and described TV programming sought to serve these viewers, we successfully obtained grant-funds to expand the media library resources for multiple related disabilities and learners of all ages. Today, the Vegas PBS Special Needs Resource Library provides FREE educational resources for children with special needs and their parents, caregivers, teachers and providers, as well as adults and their families who need adaptive resources to continue to thrive.

This Autism Awareness Month, in addition to TV programs on the topic, we especially want to highlight the books, DVDs and educational resources in our library that address feelings and emotions, language development, listening and social skills. See page 23 for more information.

For 50 years, Vegas PBS has delivered programs to our community. In the 1960s we were limited to TV shows and companion books or classroom workbooks. In the 2010s we still use television and books for education, but have added the internet, mobile apps and even a grant-funded library to extend the impact of what your donations make possible on TV. We thank you for your support of universally accessible mission-based, public service media for everyone in our community.

Civilizations

Tuesdays, April 17- May 15 at 8 p.m.

This bold new series tells the story of art from the dawn of human history to the present day, for the first time on a global scale. Acclaimed film, theater and television actor Liev Schreiber (Ray Donovan, Spotlight) will narrate its series, which broadens the canvas to reveal the role art and the creative imagination have played across multiple cultures and civilizations.

Works of beauty, ingenuity and illumination created across continents are introduced. From the landscape scrolls of classical China and the sculpture of the Olmecs to African bronzes, Japanese prints and French Impressionist paintings, discover the wealth of treasures created through the entirety of the human experience.

In nine episodes, the series travels across the globe, visiting such cultural landmarks as the great mosques of Istanbul, the ancient cities of Mesoamerica, the Buddhist caves of Ajanta in India, the Aztecs' Templo Mayor in modern Mexico City and the funeral site of China's first emperor. It explores a sweeping range of topics, including the earliest human cultural artifacts and the representation of the body in art, what happens when different civilizations encounter each other, and the nature of "renaissances" around the world. Encore broadcasts air on Wednesdays at 4:30 p.m.

In Principle

Fridays at 8 p.m. beginning April 13

Joining our lineup of acclaimed news programming this month is an all-new half-hour series. It will feature co-hosts Michael Gerson, a frequent contributor to PBS NewsHour, syndicated Washington Post columnist and author of the book Heroic Conservatism; and Amy Holmes, a political news commentator formerly of MSNBC and TheBlaze TV and Radio Network. The series will include guests from across the ideological spectrum in the worlds of politics, policy, the arts and academia, with Holmes and Gerson probing the framework of today's news and political conversations, examining how history, faith and culture influence the larger discussions taking place in the country today.

“We need a place where we can have thoughtful, reasonable, in-depth conversations about politics, policy, culture — you name it — where we're really talking to each other instead of shouting at each other,” said Holmes. “It's not about shouting, it's about talking and listening and learning — I want our viewers to feel it was always time well spent. That they come away saying, ‘I learned something that I didn't know before.’”

Gerson states, “We intend to engage newsmakers and culture shapers at a deeper level, exploring their beliefs and motivations in a way viewers might not get in other formats on television.”

Rough Cut Season 8

Saturdays at 9:30 a.m. beginning April 14

This Emmy-nominated series returns for season eight with new host Tom McLaughlin, who has been making and designing commissioned, custom furniture since 1990. In each episode, design inspiration is turned into easy-to-follow projects for woodworkers at every skill level. Tom teaches the latest wood crafting techniques, as well as tips and instruction for how to create projects that can be passed down for generations.

Projects this season include: a craftsman-style dining chair in white oak, a Shaker-style hall table in cherry, a hanging bow front cabinet in American ash, a tilt-top round breakfast table in curly maple, a live-edge coffee table made from New England walnut and much more.

EPISODES THIS MONTH:

April 14

Tom crafts a refined, light Shaker-inspired hall table out of gorgeous cherry using mostly hand tools. From the elegant tapered legs, to the undercut beveled edge along the top, this table offers a chance to get back to basics with extraordinary results. Techniques include using a hand plane, skimming, creating basic mortise and tenons, and chiseling pocket holes.

April 21

Tom uses American ash from his back woods to create a hanging bow front cabinet featuring hand-crafted proud dovetails and a hidden magnet close. He shares his tips for using lamination to create the simple but beautiful bow front door by applying a fantastic figured ash veneer.

April 28

Tom welcomes veteran woodworker Terry Moore. Terry shares his technique for designing a dramatic sunburst walnut veneer pattern on a round side table while Tom heads to the lathe to show how to turn an Art Deco-inspired column. The two collaborate on the cross lapped joinery feet and the end result is an elegant, smooth, intriguing piece.

In tonight's episode, meet the animals who will steal, cheat and fight to get food, including con artist spiders and cannibalistic lizards.

NOVA Wonders: What Are Animals Saying?

April 25 at 9 p.m.

From singing whales and howling wolves to chirping birds and clicking dolphins, the world is filled with the exotic vocalizations of other creatures. But what are they saying? While we believe language sets us apart, scientists are finally beginning to unravel the codes of animal communication. Please see adjoining page for details on this new series.

NOVA: Bird Brain

NOVA Wonders

Wednesdays, April 25 - May 30 at 9 p.m.

From the makers of the award-winning NOVA science series comes a tantalizing new documentary series reporting from the frontiers of science. The six-part series is hosted by three engaging young scientists who are tackling the biggest unanswered questions about life and the cosmos, and pushing the boundaries of understanding in ways that could transform our world and the future.

This fresh, lively series makes complicated concepts accessible while taking a deep dive into the scientific process. Each episode poses a single big scientific question and takes viewers along on a journey to explore how far we've come in our quest for answers, and how we've managed to get here. Among the intriguing topics pondered are the secret language of animals, what's hidden in the human body, the artificial intelligence technologies that could rival and surpass the abilities of the human mind, the controversial power to engineer life in a lab and other mysteries of the universe.

The series travels to some unexpected places to look for answers – including deep underwater, where humpback whales are essentially playing a game of “telephone” across the world, with pods teaching each other new songs; deep beneath our skin, where trillions of microbes are living in our bodies; deep below the earth, in mines where researchers are trying to detect elusive dark matter particles; deep into space, where astrophysicists are hunting for signs of extra-terrestrial life, and more.

A Message from a Vegas PBS Planned Giving Council Member

Size of Charitable Deductions Depends on Many Factors

Scott Taylor
Vegas PBS
Planned Giving
Council Member

Whether you're claiming charitable deductions on your 2017 return or planning your donations for 2018, be sure you know how much you're allowed to deduct. Your deduction depends on more than just the actual amount you donate.

TYPE OF GIFT

One of the biggest factors affecting your deduction is what you give:

Cash. You may deduct 100% gifts made by check, credit card or payroll deduction.

Ordinary-income property. For stocks and bonds held one year or less, inventory, and property subject to depreciation recapture, you generally may deduct only the lesser of fair market value or your tax basis.

Long-term capital gains property. You may deduct the current fair market value of appreciated stocks and bonds held for more than one year.

Tangible personal property. Your deduction depends on the situation:

- If the property isn't related to the charity's tax-exempt function (such as a painting donated for a charity auction), your deduction is limited to your basis.
- If the property is related to the charity's tax-exempt function (such as a painting donated to a museum for its collection), you can deduct the fair market value.

Vehicle. Unless the vehicle is being used by the charity, you generally may deduct only the amount the charity receives when it sells the vehicle.

Use of Property. Examples include use of a vacation home and a loan of artwork. Generally, you receive no deduction because it isn't considered a completed gift.

Services. You may deduct only your out-of-pocket expenses, not the fair market value of your services. You can deduct 14 cents per charitable mile driven.

Other Factors

First, you'll benefit from the charitable deduction only if you itemize deductions rather than claim the standard deduction. Also, your annual charitable donation deductions may be reduced if they exceed certain income-based limits.

In addition, your deduction generally must be reduced by the value of any benefit received from the charity. Finally, various substantiation requirements apply, and the charity must be eligible to receive tax-deductible contributions.

2018 Planning

While December's Tax Cuts and Jobs Act (TCJA) preserves the charitable deduction, it temporarily makes itemizing less attractive for many taxpayers, reducing the tax benefits of charitable giving for them.

Itemizing saves tax only if itemized deductions exceed the standard deduction. For 2018 through 2025, the TCJA nearly doubles the standard deduction – plus, it limits or eliminates some common itemized deductions. As a result, you may no longer have enough itemized deductions to exceed the standard deduction, in which case your charitable donations won't save you tax.

Another alternative option is for taxpayers who are required to make "minimum distributions," over age 70 1/2 or regularly making IRA distributions, to execute allowed "qualified charitable distributions." This method would eliminate the new limitations on itemized deductions and would allow the same basic deduction "above the line," meaning that you would reduce your taxable IRA distribution instead of disallowed itemized deductions. This would maximize tax benefits with higher new standard deductions, if annual limits were imposed for itemized deductions.

THIS WEEK'S PICKS

Remembering the victims of the mass shooting on October 1, 2017

#VegasStrong: The Road Ahead

Friday, April 6 at 8 p.m.

Vegas Strong. Two words that unite and connect our community after the unthinkable. One October became the largest mass shooting in the United States to date with 58 killed, hundreds injured and tens of thousands effected. Host Mitch Truswell looks at the possible social outcomes that October 1, 2017 will have on a broad range of victims in our community. How does a community recover from such trauma? How are victims moving forward? What are the possible short term and long term effects? This new local special takes viewers inside the Vegas Strong Resiliency Center to explain available resources, and goes one-on-one with experts in mental health, trauma recovery and law to learn about assistance victims can access, as well as potential challenges the future may hold. Repeats on Sunday, April 8 at 5:30 p.m.

Nature: Sex, Lies and Butterflies

Wednesday, April 4 at 8 p.m.

Butterflies have been making our planet more interesting and beautiful for more than 50 million years, and today a dazzling array of nearly 20,000 different species inhabit the globe. This new special follows the lives of these incredible and important insects from egg to caterpillar to chrysalis to the emergence of the mature winged creature. This vibrant film explores the astonishing survival techniques of butterflies, including their 360° vision, deceptive camouflage, chemical weaponry and fantastic flight across continents. Through sophisticated macro-filming, viewers get a rare glimpse beyond the butterflies' bright colors and fragile beauty as they follow them on one of the greatest migrations on Earth. Narrated by Paul Giamatti.

The Perfect Crime: American Experience

Tuesday, April 10 at 9 p.m.

In 1924, the murder of a 14-year-old boy by two wealthy college students shocked the nation. But more horrifying than the brutal killing — the boy was bludgeoned to death — was the motive. Nathan Leopold and Richard Loeb admitted they planned to abduct and kill a child at random simply for the thrill of it. Legendary defense attorney Clarence Darrow summoned experts to show that the murderers had been shaped by childhood trauma and that it was society and its barbaric death penalty that deserved to be put on trial. Set in 1920s Chicago — a city of gin joints, gangsters, and political corruption — the film tells a story that set off a national debate about morality, individual responsibility and capital punishment.

THIS WEEK'S PICKS

Civilizations: Second Moment of Creation

Tuesday, April 17 at 8 p.m.

Tonight begins the premiere of this new nine-part series, telling the story of art from the dawn of human history to the present day. It broadens the canvas to reveal the role art and the creative imagination have played across multiple cultures and civilizations. This week's episode begins seventy thousand years ago, with the first known examples of humans expressing themselves creatively through simple, abstract etchings. Over tens of thousands of years, this impulse evolved into painted and sculpted depictions of the animal world...and eventually of the human form itself. Please see page 8 for more details on this series.

Antiques Roadshow: Portland

Monday, April 16 at 8 p.m.

Part adventure, part history lesson and part treasure hunt, this iconic program is a 13-time Emmy® Award-nominee and PBS' most-watched ongoing series. Join host Mark Walberg as we travel this month to the beautiful City of Roses. Uncovered are West Coast wonders such as a Pablo Picasso "Grand Oiseau Vert" pot, an Ottoman zarf made around 1875 and a Tiffany Studios "Bookmark" desk set from around 1924. One of these is the big find of the night! Repeats Thursday, April 19 at 9 p.m. and Saturday, April 21 at 4 p.m.

THIS WEEK'S PICKS

Unidentified victim

FRONTLINE: Trafficked in America Tuesday, April 24 at 10 p.m.

Human traffickers lured half a dozen teenage Guatemalan boys to central Ohio with the promise of schooling, then confined them to dilapidated trailers and forced them to work 12 hours a day at an egg farm, confiscating their paychecks and threatening to kill them if they sought help. Get the inside story of these Guatemalan teens forced to work against their will. An investigation of labor trafficking exposes a criminal network exploiting undocumented minors, companies profiting from forced labor and the US government's role.

NOVA Wonders: What are Animals Saying?

Wednesdays at 9 p.m. beginning April 25

This new series follows three remarkable researchers who are tackling the biggest unanswered questions about life and the cosmos. This week's episode explores the exotic vocalizations of other creatures, from singing whales to howling wolves. But what are they saying? Some animals demonstrate they can learn our language—like Chaser the dog, who recognizes hundreds of words. The question scientists are asking now is whether we can learn theirs. Researchers are deciphering an amazing array of clues that reveal how animals share information critical to their survival. Will we one day be able to write the bat dictionary or decode the hidden sign language of chimps? And what can these findings tell us about the roots of our own language?

Host Burt Wolf introduces us to the people, architecture, art, culture, food and tourist attractions of some of the world's most interesting locations. His relaxed, personable and irreverent style makes the series both informative and entertaining. This week he covers one of the first questions that come to mind when travelling, which is, "Where should we eat?" Deciding on the right restaurant becomes an essential part of travel planning and it's surprising to realize that just about everything that makes up a modern restaurant – street floor access, a receptionist, seating, the wait staff, the kitchen in the back and a written invoice – was developed in Paris during a 50-year period starting in 1765. Burt travels around and looks at how these basic elements come together when someone decides to open a restaurant.

THIS WEEK'S PICKS

Ballykissangel Marathon

Sunday, April 22 from 10 a.m. – 6 p.m.

Now that we are airing drama programs in the afternoon, some of you may have missed the first season of wonderful series and feel a bit behind. Now is your chance to enjoy the first season in an all-day marathon! Then, be sure to tune in to the weekday broadcast on Tuesdays at 3:30 p.m. When Father Peter

Clifford arrives from Manchester, he knows he will be facing some opposition. After all, what is a young, inexperienced English priest doing in Ireland, of all places? He soon finds out that the town of Ballykissangel poses many more challenges. Rural village life is very different from the big cities. Here everyone knows everyone else's business and a secret doesn't stay secret for long. Contending with the long-established ways of the villagers and their eccentricities and superstitions is a full-time job.

The Peregrine Dame

Monday, April 2 and Tuesday, April 3 at 6 p.m.

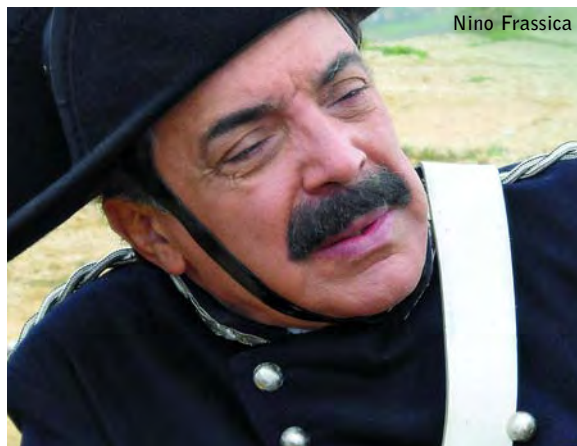

In the first series of its kind, travel journal- ist and host Rachel Parsons explores inter- national travel as a lone female: no crew, no traveling companions, proving that traveling solo doesn't have to be so scary; and that traveling alone doesn't mean you're lonely. Airing two episodes on both evenings, she shares history, culture, and a couple of melt- downs along the way in a funny, entertaining and educational way. Episodes this week include visits to Belize; Durban, South Africa; Zuzuland, South Africa; and London. It's not the warm, fuzzy world of other trav- el shows; it's the real world of traveling solo with The Peregrine Dame; honest, curious, and unafraid.

The Vanishing of Pato

Sunday, April 1 at 6 p.m.

If you think Detective Montalbano's hometown of Vigata can get a little nutty sometimes, you should see it in 1890! Based on the historical mystery novel by Andrea Camilleri, the story is set in the same seaside town that Detective Montalbano fans know and love. One of Vigata's most upstanding citizens vanishes right after his appearance in the annual Passion Play. South collides with North as a local Sicilian carabinieri (Nino Frassica) teams up with a Neapolitan police officer (Maurizio Casagrande) to unlock the mystery of his disappearance. Despite their cultural, linguistic and personal differences the two men manage to forge an alliance, wading through local politics, personal agen- das and the general wackiness that is Vigata to find out what really happened. In Italian with English subtitles. Repeats same day at 9 p.m.
